JONI MITCHELL The Fez, New York 1986 CD £12.99

Joni Mitchell, joined by jazz drummer Brian Blade of Shreveport, LA, surprised audiences with a performance at New York's Greenwich Village nightclub, The Fez. This concert is famous for an altercation between Chrissie Hynde of The Pretenders and Carly Simon. Chrissie was yelling out to Joni so much that Carly asked her to be quiet and Chrissie came over to Carly's booth and said "That's a real singer up there" as she put her hands around Carly's neck. Chrissie then went back to her seat and Carly left the club in a huff.

This Rough Guide captures a whole menagerie of animals, both large and small, which provided the inspiration for many classic early blues recordings. From the mighty alligator to the lowly bedbug, these songs provide an intriguing insight into this weird, wonderful and often hilarious association.

VARIOUS ARTISTS That Ska Beat: 1962-1966 Ltd. Red LP £17.99

Ska never stopped you know! From it's Jamaican music if the piano's not playing ska or the guitar... any music you have... reggae... even the computer music... the piano's playing 'ska, ska, ska...' it leads the music so ska is still the backbone of Jamaican music. Right?" Bunny Lee
